

Dear Colleagues,

It is our pleasure to introduce the Program of Geneva Colloids with 28 excellent invited speakers: <http://conference.colloid.ch/program/>

We are also organizing a twitter poster session for anybody who is keen to try out a new type of scientific communication. If you want to participate, please send us your abstract to conference@colloid.ch. You can find more details on <http://conference.colloid.ch/posters/>.

We have a total capacity of 500 participants in the Zoom session, which leaves us with 400 free slots for participants who want to follow the talks.

Therefore we would like to ask you, to share the information about the conference with your colleagues, students, and postdocs. Like this we will be able to share these great lectures with a wide scientific community.

Anyone who still wants to register for the poster session or to participate without presentation can do so by sending an email to conference@colloid.ch.

All the info can be found at <http://conference.colloid.ch>.

All the best and see you in the beginning of April,

The Organizers